

Dr. Ming Zeng
35 E 38th Street Suite, 1B
New York, New York 10016

Medical Education and Training

1977-1982 Changsha, China
Doctor of Medicine degree (M.D.), Hunan College of Traditional Chinese Medicine
Training: Traditional Chinese Medicine, Acupuncture, Western Medicine

1986-1989 Nanjing, China
Post Doctoral degree, Nanjing University
Training: Western Medicine and Traditional Chinese Medicine

Clinical Experience

1982-1984 Xinjiang, China
Resident, Department of Internal Medicine, Xinjiang Railway Hospital
Practice: Western Internal Medicine and Traditional Chinese Medicine

Research: Improving the treatment results in cerebral and cardiovascular diseases and women's disorders with Acupuncture and herbs

Chief Resident, Cardiovascular Department, Xinjiang Railway Hospital
Practice: Cardiovascular Medicine

Research: Hemodynamic changes during treatment of cardiovascular diseases with Chinese herbs

1986-1989 Nanjing, China
Postgraduate and Resident, Affiliated Hospital of Nanjing Hospital
Practice: Integration of Traditional Chinese Medicine with Western Medicine in treatment of cardiovascular disease.

Research: Prevention and treatment of arteriosclerosis through integration of Western Medicine, Traditional Chinese Medicine, and Acupuncture

1989-1994 Beijing, China
Attending Physician, Beijing Capital International Airport Hospital
Practice: Integrated Traditional Chinese Medicine and Western Medicine

Research: Prevention and treatment of cardiovascular disease and other common diseases and women's diseases by combining methods of Western Medicine and Traditional Chinese Medicine in adults and seniors

1995-1996

Beijing, China

Deputy Director, Department of Internal Medicine, Beijing Capital International Airport Hospital

Practice: Integrated Traditional Chinese Medicine and Western Medicine

Research: Gerontology and Traditional Chinese Medicine

1996- Present

New York

Director and Acupuncturist, Ming Health

Practice: Acupuncture and Traditional Chinese Medicine

Research: Prevention and treatment of women's disorders with Acupuncture and Traditional Chinese Medicine in collaboration with the Center for Complementary and Alternative Medicine, Columbia University, New York

Teaching Positions

1995-1996

Visiting Lecturer, Beijing College of Acupuncture and Orthopedics

Topic: Clinical practice of Acupuncture and Traditional Chinese Medicine

Visiting Lecturer, American Acupuncture College, New York

Topic: Clinical practice and Medical Acupuncture

2002-2005

Visiting Lecturer, New York University Medical School

Topic: Acupuncture and Traditional Chinese Medicine

Honors and Awards

1992 "The Best Paper Award", The National Conference of Integration of Traditional and Chinese Medicine with Western Medicine

1993 "Excellent Doctor and Research Fellow Award", Beijing General Trade Union

1994 "Excellent Doctor Award", China Organizing Committee of the 4th World Congress on Women, Beijing, China

Publications and Presentations

- Treatment of Cerebral Arteriosclerosis using Traditional Chinese Medicine Methods...Clinical trials and experimental study, lecture, 1st National Conference of Traditional Chinese Medicine on Gerontology, June 1991, Shanghai China.
- Presentation by Dr. Ming Zeng

- Prevention and Treatment of Common Diseases in Adult and Aging Population , “China Publication of Traditional Chinese Medicine”, May 1992, Beijing, China, Dr. Ming Zeng
- The Effect of Use of “Yang-Shou Longevity Mixture*” in the Treatment of Cerebral Arteriosclerosis Followed Up with Doppler Ultrasonic Hemotachogram. The New Research and Progress of Promoting Blood Circulation to Remove Stasis, “Chinese Medicine and Scientific Technology”, 1993, Beijing China, Dr. Ming Zeng
- Treatment of 32 Cases of Meniere’s Syndrome with Evodia Decoction and Compound Saliva Injection, lecture, The 1st National Conference of TCM and Integrated Medicine for Middle and Young Age Doctors, 1994, Zhangjijajie, China. Presentation by Dr. Ming Zeng
- The Effect of Blood Rheology on Rabbits Fed a “Yang- Shou Longevity Mixture*”, “Integration of TCM and Western Medicine”, 1995, Dr. Ming Zeng
- Clinical Study of the Treatment of Migraine Headaches by Acupuncture, lecture, 4th World Conference of Acupuncture, 1996, New York. Presentation by Dr. Ming Zeng
- Integrating Eastern and Western Medicine in Treating Infertility, 3rd International Conference on Integrated and Bioenergetic Medicine, July 1998, Baltimore, Maryland. Presentation by Dr. Ming Zeng

* “Yang Shou Longevity Mixture” is a proprietary Chinese herbal Medicine developed by Dr. Ming Zeng

Membership in Professional Associations

1987- Present: Member, China Association of Medicine

1989-Present: Member, China Association of Integration of Western Medicine and Traditional Chinese Medicine

1991- Present: Member, Acupuncture Association of China

1996-Present: Member, American Association of Oriental Medicine